U. S. Airplane Soon to Carry Warto Teutons

First Delivery of Machine-Made Motors Expected in Near Future

Tests of Types Prove Satisfactory

By Spring America Will Also Be Manufacturing for the Allies

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—First deliveries of machine-made Liberty airplane motors, initiating the quantity production of the machines relied upon to furnish the means for carrying the war to Germany in the air on an extensive scale, will begin in the near future. Motors tested out up to this time have been largely produced as individual type units by slow hand processes. The first deliveries, it was learned to-day, will be comparatively small. The rate of production will speed up every day thereafter, and long before spring breaks the winter's grip upon the fighting fronts Liberty motors will be turned out at a rate that will enable the United States not only to meet its own requirements but also to deliver thousands to certain of the Allied governments which have requested allotments.

Tests Are Satisfactory
Tests of the motor, both the army and navy types, are proceeding most satisfactorily. Surprisingly few cases of trouble requiring changes in design have been noted. Some "bugs," as defects or eccentricities are known, have developed, but up to this time all such are minor matters, requiring no delay in the quantity production of the engine.

Officers of both services, heretofore skeptical of the possibility of turning out in a comparatively short space of time air fleets that might bring decisive results in the war, are becoming more and more impressed. Unless the repeated statement from Germany that she has discounted the American air programme in advance proves to be better founded than it is believed to be, they have little doubt that enormous pressure can be exerted with the Liberty fleets.

Planes Have High Speed
Recent trials of army type Liberty planes, American built throughout and including Liberty motors, have shown good results. One of these fighting models, according to reports, made extraordinary speed, approximating the best pace of the one-man fighting planes in use on the war fronts. The American engineers are now working toward improvement of design, the production of an adequate supply of suitable planes having been assured. New methods may be tried out experimentally now without fear of delaying the equipment of the air army.

Horning to Direct Motor Buying for U. S. and Allies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—L. H. Horning, of Waukesha, Wis., chairman of the auto-motive products section of the War Industries Board, was named to-day to represent the board in negotiations for taking over part of the motor plants of the country for war service. He also will supervise all auto-motive purchases made by the United States and her allies.

Troops Guard Body Of Hawaiian Queen

Former Estate Manager Says Liliuokalani's Secret Will Gives Him Control

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 12 (delayed).—National Guard troops of Hawaii have taken charge of the body of former Queen Liliuokalani, because of a threatened will contest. She died Sunday. Control of the body was demanded by John F. Colburn, who declared the former monarch, in a will dated August 29, 1917, appointed him executor of the estate, making many changes in the disposition of the property.

Colburn, former manager of the Kapalanoni estate, said the will had been secretly signed. Trustees of the late Queen's estate were inclined to question the authenticity of the alleged will, pointing out that Liliuokalani had been seriously ill at the time Colburn claims she signed the document. Following a military conference to-night it was decided that funeral arrangements would be turned over to Kalamianole trustees, who decreed that the body should lie in state to-morrow, with formal waiting, according to the ancient Hawaiian funeral customs.

Are You Blind---or Blindfolded?

It is surprising to find how many of us are like that long-legged bird of infinite awkwardness—the ostrich. We've been hiding our heads in the sand of "things-as-they-should-be" and losing sight of the fact of "things-as-they-are" for quite long enough. It's time now to take our heads from their concealment, oil the machinery a bit and set the wheels whirring.

Liberty was fought for and handed down to us by our forefathers and we owe it to our children's children to protect it and pass it on. How can we do it if our army is lacking in physical and moral strength?

Statistics have proved that, in this war—and every other war recorded—more fighting men have been incapacitated by preventable disease than by weapons of warfare. That is not theory. It is fact. It is easily understood. It can be summed up in one word—environment.

We are building an army that is going to have a terrific task on its hands—a task that requires an army of Herculean calibre. The puny, the bloodless, the deficient, the diseased are simply fodder in this fight. They cannot be factors in an offensive. They haven't the stamina to be momentous, even in a defensive. They are a dead loss to themselves, to their country—and to generations to come.

We must profit by the experience of other nations and send to the front clean, healthy men who can fight and beat the Germans, not men who were healthy when they went into the camps and before they get to the front are weakened by contamination.

The government and the military authorities cannot do this alone. It needs the help of every American citizen to influence the soldier boy in the right way. Every boy with a spark in him will, when taken out of good social environment, seek new channels, and if the vile is open to him and the good closed he will drift to the vile. It's human nature and you can't change it by preaching to him. But you can so keep him occupied in off hours that he will strengthen his character and physique instead of weakening it.

It is to establish a Great Preventive—an effective foe to the menace—that the War Camp Community Fund has been founded. We are going to stamp out this horrible scourge of wartime, not by smoothly worded chats, not by thunderous threats, but by human appeal to our boys—by injecting a system of sport, entertainment and general diversion that will take up the hours out of camp—a system complete enough and amusing enough to be looked forward to—not a half-hearted, half-baked proposition that the boys will consider an imposition.

New York has been asked to raise $1,000,000 of a $4,000,000 fund, to be used for this purpose.

Other communities and smaller cities have responded—many by over-subscription. A special committee of Rotarians and other citizens has been formed to collect this money. You are asked not only to contribute, but also to get others to contribute. Every dollar subscribed goes into the fund, and will be spent directly on the soldier or sailor boy. Not one cent is touched for the expense of this campaign. Any expenses that may have to be met will be paid out of a special fund, but almost everything is contributed by patriotic persons. The Rotary Club of New York stands sponsor for the proper handling of all money sent or turned over to the care of this committee.

Before you lay down this paper put a one dollar bill, a five, ten or a hundred in an envelope and mail it. The committee prefers checks and they should be made to Ernest Staufen, Jr., Treasurer. Mr. Staufen is vice-president Liberty National Bank, Equitable Building, New York.
